The third great defect of our civilization is that it does not know what to do with its knowledge. Science has given us powers fit for the gods, yet we use them like small children. For example, we do not know how to manage our machines.

Machines were made to be man's servants yet he has grown so dependent on them that they are in a fair way to become his masters. Already most men spend most of their lives looking after and waiting upon machines. And the machines are very stern taskmasters. They must be fed with coal, given petrol to drink, oil to wash with and they must be kept at the right temperature. And if they do not get their meals when they expect them, they grow sulky and refuse to work, or burst with rage, blow up and spread ruin and destruction all around them. So we have to wait upon them very carefully. Already we find it difficult either to work or play without the machines and time may come when they will rule us altogether, just as we rule over the animal world.
